RETAIN ANDREWS.

Present Architect Will Complete New Capitol.

COMMISSION EMPLOYS HIM TO FINISH WORK WHICH HE HAS BEGUN.

Frank M. Andrews, who was the architect for the new Capitol, and who has built it, will continue to be the architect for the building in spite of the fact that the governor vetoed that portion of the bill appropriating the money for the completion of the capitol, which provided that the present architect should be retained to complete his work on the building. The Capitol Commission met Wednesday afternoon and reached an agreement with Mr. Andrews by which he is to be retained as the architect for everything about the capitol except the landscape gardening, which will be done by Olmsted Bros., of Brookline, Mass. This means that work on the new capitol will be rushed and that there is to be no further delay in completing the handsome new home for the State officials.

Mr. Andrews and the Capitol Commission had a protracted meeting on Wednesday afternoon, being in session several hours. Mr. Andrews was with the members and explained in detail all his plans. After the meeting it was announced that Mr. Andrews would be the architect for the power plant and the electrical fixtures and would also have charge of the construction of the steps and retaining wall about the building. For this he will receive the regular 5 per cent commission. He will also be the architect in the selection of the furniture and fittings for the capitol, and for this will receive 2½ per cent, instead of the 5 per cent which he is allowed in other work. In the selection of floor coverings Mr. Andrews will be retained, and on this will receive his commission of 5 per cent.

Mr. Andrews will be in charge as was intended by the Legislature when it passed the bill making the appropriation for the completion of the capitol. The bill was fought because of the section which provided for the retention of Mr. Andrews, and also any effort to remove this clause was fought. The bill was passed in the House on the night of adjournment, after it had been amended so as to provide that Mr. Andrews should be retained only so long as it was deemed necessary to have an architect. Governor Willson vetoed this section of the bill and left the question of an architect one to be decided by the Capitol Commission.

Regarding the employment of Mr. Andrews, Dr. Ben L. Bruner, secretary of state, said: "I think the man planned the building and has the whole general scheme in his head should be allowed to complete it, and I have been trying to make the others of the commission see things that way. They have finally decided the same thing, after seeing the plans, and Mr. Andrews will complete the work which he began."

John C. Noel For National Delegate.

FRIENDS OF FRANKFORT MAN WOULD SEND HIM TO DENVER CONVENTION.

John C. Noel, president of the Farmers' Bank, of Frankfort, and one of the leading Democrats of Franklin county, has announced himself as a candidate to the National convention from the Seventh Congressional district, and probably will have the solid backing of Franklin county Democrats. Mr. Noel has been urged by his friends here to let his name be used as a candidate for district delegate, and he said that he would be in the race. Thus far he is the only man who has announced for the place, but the friends of W. P. Walton, editor of the Kentucky State Journal, have started a boom for him, and he may be one of the two delegates from this district.

Mr. Noel is prominently connected with the Society of Equity, and the Burley Tobacco Society, and is himself a farmer. He is interested in the success of the farmers, and has done much for them. On account of his being a farmer, and so prominently connected with the Burley Society, he will have a strong backing and support among the farmers all over the district, and his friends say that he is practically certain to have this judicial district solidly behind him for the honor of representing the Ashland district at the big convention in Denver.
